The Unmarried and the Widowed

1Co 7:25 [illegible], [illegible]. [illegible], [illegible]. Paul had no specific word from Jesus on the subject of virgins. They call for special treatment, but he had the command of Jesus concerning divorce to guide him.

This was another subject on which the Church at Corinth had asked the advice of the apostle. The Greek word virgin, we take to signify a pure, unmarried young woman; but it is evident that the word in this place means young unmarried persons of either sex.

1Co 7:26 [illegible], [illegible]. In such times, when the people of God had no certain dwelling-place, when they were lying at the mercy of their enemies without any protection from the state - the state itself often among the persecutors - he who had a family to care for, would find himself in very embarrassed circumstances, as it would be much more easy to provide for his personal safety than to have the care of a wife and children. On this account it was much better for unmarried persons to continue for the present in their celibacy
